Mystic Valley Elder Services Receives Donation of Socks
From Bombas to Help Consumers in Need

(Malden, MA) - Bombas, a national sock manufacturer, recently donated 1,000 pairs of socks to Mystic Valley Elder Services (MVES) to provide to the agency's in-need Individuals. Bombas is a comfort focused sock and apparel brand with a mission to help those in need. One pair purchased = one pair donated. Literally hundreds of low income people will benefit from Bombas generosity with socks being distributed by MVES care managers as well as through MVES philanthropic partnerships with Hallmark Health, the City of Malden and Zonta Club of Malden, The Mobile Food Market and Bread of Life. In 2018, the company had donated more than 8.6 million pairs of socks. Nancy Mullaly, Nutrition Assistant at Mystic Valley Elder Services, provides her consumer Anthony Crescenzi, of Wakefield, with a few pairs of Bombas socks.
